Drainage work affects portions of boulevard

BY SHARON SAUCIER
The city of Waveland and the county are working hard to alleviate problems with drainage in the Bienville Street and Bay Oaks areas, but the residents will have to bear with them just a little longer until South Beach Boulevard and three adjoining streets are reopened.

Portions of South Beach Boulevard have been closed for nearly a week, but are expected to reopen at the end of this week, as workers put in new drainage equipment that will allow the excess water to be directed into the sound, said GM&R Construction president

Henry Martinez, a subcontractor for T.L. James Construction. "The city of Waveland is to put in a junction, which will tie together the work of the county and the work of the city to hopefully alleviate some of the flooding problems that residents of this area have been facing," Martinez said.

Brown and Mitchell Engineering of Gulfport are the designers of the new drainage system, which is part of the $2,322,532 sand beach project in Waveland.

"There is a ridge that blocks water from running off in the areas where we are putting in new drainage systems. We have provided the pipe across the beach for the city to hook up to at Bienville," said Marty Dove, with Brown and Mitchell Engineering.

Dove also said that a trench grading will be put in place at Lafitte Drive, Nicholson and St. Charles streets.

Beach Boulevard is expected to be open by Friday, but Lafitte Drive, St. Charles and Nicholson streets, from Central Avenue to Beach Boulevard, will be closed the first of next week to put in the trench gradings, Dove said.

Speak up!

Noise on council agenda

BY MARY G. SEILEY
For weeks, Bay St. Louis City Council has been pondering how to curb excessive noise in the city. But it was urged Tuesday night to turn up the volume.

The flip side of the noise issue developed near the end of a routine City Council meeting at City Hall Annex on Court Street, a former savings and loan building.

The audience customarily sits in what used to be a lobby, with a lofty ceiling. The officials sit around a conference table at one end of the room, a section that features a one-story ceiling. Those logistics are compounded by the often soft, low-key chatter among councilmembers, the mayor and various city officials located around the conference table. All of what is set is fed into a tape recorder system, but much of what is said is inaudible to the public, even with a loud speaker system that's connected to a microphone at the table.

Citizens routinely complain that they can't hear what's being said. And that happened again Tuesday night—just after council had talked again about how to regulate music/noise coming from the waterfront Dan B's lounge, which has been sponsoring outdoor music on weekend nights.

In addition to that issue, Council President James Thrifflay had asked that park officials redirect the loud speakers at the city's ballfield, so area residents aren't disturbed by blow-by-blow accounts of Little League games.

"Turn the speakers down so the kids in the next county don't hear the results," Trifflay told Frank Perniciaro, director of parks and playgrounds.

Thrifflay also commented on the waterfront noise issue, saying some performers "try to sing and they don't know how." The

Supervisors approve 2-year contract with Mobile Medic

BY SHARON SAUCIER
The Hancock County Board of Supervisors approved another two-year contract with Mobile Medic Tuesday, in a three and a half hour long meeting, which makes Hancock one of only three counties to require a paramedic on board their ambulances.

The only other counties that offer this service are Harrison and Stone counties, Steve Delahoney with Mobile Medic said. "Usually there are only emergency medical technicians on board, but Hancock is now one of three to require this," Delahoney said.

The contract calls for the county to pay the ambulance service $49,228 for the first contract year, which runs from July 16 through May 15, 1995. The county will then pay Mobile Medic another $18,000 for the second year, according to the contract.

District three supervisor Howard Lizana voiced some concern that he had about ambulance service for residents in the northernmost part of Hancock County.

"I have had several people call me and tell me that they could not get ambulance service from Mobile Medic, that they were told that they had to get a subscription through AAA Ambulance. They do not want to go to Picayune hospital, they want to come here," Lizana said.

Delahoney said that Mobile Medic and AAA Ambulance, which serves Pearl River County, have an agreement that states that whichever ambulance is closer will respond, that the person may have to subscribe to AAA, but will be served by whichever ambulance is closer.

"The ambulance will take the person to whichever hospital that they want to go to, Picayune, Hancock or Gulfport,"

Hwy 603 lane dedicated

BY SHARON SAUCIER
The new turning lane at the intersection of Miss. Hwy. 603 and Kiln-Delisle Road was dedicated Wednesday by Mississippi State Highway Commissioner Ronnie Shows, District 93 State Representative Harry Frierson and local business leaders.

The North Hancock County Business Association was responsible for getting resolutions passed to have the turning lane established.

Shows said that studies are still being done to determine the feasibility of putting in a stop light at the site.

There was also some concern by the business leaders present as to if and where the highway could be routed through the intersection.

"When there is a severe curve in a highway that we are four laning, we usually try to straighten it. There will be a lot of studies done before we decide even if the highway will be rerouted," Shows said.

Shows said that environmental impact studies would have to be done to determine if there are wetland areas and where they are located.

"If the highway were to rerouted, the new highway would be dead, because there would be no place for businesses to locate along the right-of-way," president of the North Hancock County Business Owners Association Billie Lyons said.

Shows said that there would be several areas surveyed before any decision was made concerning whether or not the highway would be rerouted.

Tornado rips home in Kiln

BY SHARON SAUCIER

A tornado dipped down briefly, long enough to partially destroy the home of a Kiln family, but they are trying to keep their spirits up.

The home of Roland and Lethia Cuevas was hit by a tornado at approximately 2 p.m. yesterday.

The estimated cost of damage was unknown at press time. "We have lost a lot, but we will start over. I loved my home, but my family is O.K. and that is what is important," Lethia Cuevas said.

Cuevas was not at home at the time that the tornado touched down during reported severe wind, rain and hail, but her brother, Alfred Saucier, was. He was uninjured, Cuevas said.

The Cuevas home, on Hwy. 43, is six miles from the Hwy. 603 junction.

Cuevas said that the front porch of her house was ripped off and is now in their backyard. The ceiling in the master bedroom is now in the floor and there is quite a bit of water damage.

"We can't really tell right now how much was damaged. The electricity was turned off because there was a lot of wire damage. Right now, it is hard to tell what is salvageable and what isn't," Cuevas said.

Cash found in Bay to pay for projects

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Bay St. Louis city officials have found a stash of state and federal cash available to string new traffic signal lights on Highway 90 and to finance some major upgrades off the busy highway.

Questions of how many lights, and what the additional upgrades will encompass, remain unresolved.

Richard Murley, with the engineering firm of Brown & Mitchell, Inc., told City Council members that without question a new signal can be put up at Washington Street, financed by the state. The state also will pay for re-signalization of Blue Meadow Road and Main Street's intersection with Highway 90, he said.

In addition, if traffic counts warrant it, the state will pay for a light at Drinkwater Boulevard and Highway 90, he said.

Murley's firm was hired by City Council recently to design the signalizations, but how much state and/or federal money would be available for the projects wasn't known.

He reported Monday that recently-passed legislation would pay for the signals on Highway 90. In addition, the city has some $340,000 available through Gulf Regional Planning Commission for road improvements off Highway 90, he said.

That money had been envisioned by GRPC as needed to upgrade the busy Blue Meadow Road, Murley said, but it could be redirected to any off-Highway 90 project the city deems appropriate.

"It's almost like Christmas," council member Tad Black said Murley's news.

The city has been working for months to upgrade Blue Meadow's intersection with Highway 90, mainly to accommodate the Casino Magic traffic. Drainage work is nearing completion in that project, and officials hope soon to install curbing and new turn lanes at the intersection.

Murley said the city had raised public "expectations" that project would be completed soon, giving relief to traffic backups at the intersection.

He suggested the city proceed with the project on its own, rather than delaying it to get state funding for paving the newly-worked route.

Meanwhile, officials hope to get total state funding for other upgrades. Council member Charles Scianna is suggesting improvements the highway's intersection with Beach Boulevard, and the south U.S. 90 service road near Beach Boulevard.

Black said study should be done of Buslog Street's intersection with the highway, often congested with Post Office traffic.

Residents responding to city cleanup efforts

BY MARY G. SEILEY
A recent push by Bay St. Louis to have unsightly properties cleaned up has worked -- almost too well, says one City Council member.

Thomas Farve told council Tuesday residents are responding to city letters and warnings to move junked appliances and other refuse from their yards. But, he added, residents don't know what to do with the junk, and some are moving it to the streets.

"I feel like we're not doing our end of it," said Farve, asking that the city set special days in each district to haul off old refrigerators, stoves and other hard-to-dispose-of refuse.

Councilman James Rutherford said the city also needs to consider sponsoring a hazardous waste cleanup day, giving residents a way to rid themselves of old paints, tires, batteries and similar waste.

Councilmen agreed to have city staff look into the special cleanup day possibilities and report back.

In other business Tuesday, council agreed to abandon an unconstructed portion of Julia Street, west of Engman Ave., at the request of Casino Magic. The casino needs the strip of land a part of its planned golf course.

Mayor Eddie Favre told council the property at issue, totaling some 1.92 acres, is predominately wetlands and couldn't be used as a roadway even if the city kept its rights to it.

While Council member Tad Black suggested the city retain a drainage easement along the route, Favre said there are adequate drainage easements and ditches to accommodate the area.

Black then suggested the city ask Casino Magic to swap some property adjacent to the city's ballfield, in exchange for the Julia Street property. The mayor said, however, he is sure the casino would let the city use some of its property near the ballfield for additional parking, without negotiating a formal land swap.

In other matters, the mayor told council:

— Officials are putting specifications together to advertise for bids on the city's beach renourishment program. The project could be ready to advertise in 30 days.

— Plans to purchase the old CSX depot are still in limbo, while federal highway department officials consider a proposed easement on part of the structure. CSX wants to retain ownership of a narrow strip of the building closest to its tracks, but to give the city a perpetual easement on the strip. The city has a federal grant to restore the 1928 structure.

— Letters seeking easements have been sent to 28 property owners along North Beach Boulevard, to facilitate city installation of sewer lines.

— Workers should have the city's downtown parking lot on Beach Boulevard repaved by July 4th.

In other business, council agreed with the Planning and Zoning Commission's tabling of a controversial request for a bed and breakfast establishment at 1360 North Beach Boulevard. City officials say they want about a month to study how many such establishments the city should have, and what kind of regulations should be in place to regulate them.

In addition, commissioners said they want to consider the impact that a bed and breakfast has in a residential neighborhood.

Action on another controversial zoning matter was bypassed Tuesday -- council was told that a request to operate a law office at 335 Main Street has been withdrawn.

Delahoney said.

The tax collector's office also requested the purchase of more than $19,000 in computer equipment, which was not in the budget.

Tax Collector Eddie Murtagh requested that the supervisors accept the low bid of $19,850 from Delta Computer Systems.

Chancery Clerk Mike Necaise asked where the funding was to come from, because this expense was not budgeted.

"They are under budget, but not that much under budget," Necaise said.

The supervisors voted to accept the bid and for the money to come from any available funds.

Murtagh also requested the purchase of a printer from the Heritage Company to be paid for out of interphase funds. The interphase funds are monies that are sent to the county from the state for each tag that is bought in the county.

Necaise said that the county receives $.50 per tag purchased and Murtagh has set up an account for this money and let it build for necessary purchases in the tax collector's office.

The board opened and accepted bids on fencing which will be used to control beach erosion. Both bids received were for the same amount. The board voted to split the award of the bid between the two companies.

The two companies were Phillip's Building Supply and Gulfport Industrial Supply. Both bids were in the amount of $1.25 per linear foot. The companies agreed to the split in the award of the bid.

The board also voted to close Central Avenue, from Miss. Hwy. 603 to Bayou View Drive, to tractor-trailers.

In other matters, the board:

— Opened and took under advisement the bids for office and janitorial supplies until Purchasing Clerk Suzette

Beech can determine the best quote.

— Approved the change in county work crew times from 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. to 6 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., due to the heat.

— Approved a maintenance contract with Xerox for $1,194.00.

— Approved additions and deletions to tax rolls.

— Approved the resignation of Vic Green Jr. from the planning commission.

— Approved the resignation of John Smart and nomination of his replacement, Mary Cassis, to the library board.

— Approved maintenance contract for a copy machine for civil defense in the amount of $338.

— Approved giving the Hancock County Narcotics Task Force $1,214, which will be coming from the task force funds.

— Approved the increase of pay for two Hancock County Sheriff's deputies, who are now certified, by $100 per month.

— Approved new 16th section land leases.

— Approved the release of several 16th section land leases.

— Approved the county payroll for June 16-30.

— Declared Monday, July 4 a county holiday.

— Approved county employees being paid on July 1 because July 4 is a holiday.

— Tabled the reading of resolutions from West Hancock County Fire Department.

— Approved the purchase of office furniture for the tax collector's office in the total amount of $2,036.00.

— Approved the purchase of two breathing apparatuses for Fenton Volunteer Fire Department in the amount of $2,900 for both.

— Approved the purchase of a computer, keyboard and CUP for the office of the board of Supervisors in the amount of $1,569.00.

— Adjourned until July 5.

result, he said, is "that grinding, booming noise" that irritates area residents long into the night.

He wants to have the outdoor music shut down at 10 p.m., but council hasn't concurred with that idea.

Meanwhile, Peggy Dutton urged council members to speak up. "I have an opposite problem. I can't hear you all."

Council member Tad Black said city officials have been talking for a year about resolving the acoustical problems in City Hall Annex, by re-wiring the speaking system and connecting it to a better broadcasting arrangement in the lobby area.

He asked that city workers be directed to resolve the problem immediately.

Meanwhile, Dutton asked that chairs be set up for citizens closer to the conference table.

"CUEVAS" QUOTES

By Ellis C. Cuevas

I sometimes wonder just how long it takes the Mississippi Department of Transportation to repair a signal light when it malfunctions.

Traffic signals are installed for the safety of motorists on our highways, roadways and bridges.

There is a caution light, I am told, that has been out of action for over a year. It is located on the U.S. Highway 90 bridge across the Bay of St. Louis, and it warns motorists of a traffic signal at the bridge and Beach Boulevard.

In good weather there really isn't any need for the signal, but during times when fog rolls in or it rains, it is really a necessity for motorists.

Those of us who live here are aware of the signal being there as one crosses the bridge.

The serious problem lies in the fact that we now have many motorists who are unfamiliar with the area and the caution light (yellow flashing) should be operating.

Prior to the installation of the caution signal we had numerous serious accidents at the intersection, and some were caused by motorists running a light.

I realize the caution light, several hundred feet from the intersection, did not eliminate all accidents, but it did reduce some.

Whenever we have foggy or rainy conditions, it seems the dangers at the busy intersection increases.

I just wonder how many years it will take to have the signal repaired.

I will let you know.

The month of June is moving out in a big hurry and July is waiting to roll in.

Next weekend will be the big July Fourth long weekend and a lot of events are going to be happening in the area.

One of these events will be the annual Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo in Gulfport.

This is a very popular fishing rodeo and it involves both salt and freshwater competition.

Not like other fishing rodeos, there is no entry fee to complete. All one has to do is fill out a registration form and mail it in.

We have printed the copy of a registration form on Page 7-A of this issue of The Echo for your convenience.

The mailing address is attached. We will be giving you more information on the rodeo soon.

Another big festivity over the 4th weekend is the annual Fourth of July Crab Festival of Our Lady of the Gulf.

A lot of work has already gone into the preparation for the event and we will be giving you more information on it soon too.

Garbage everywhere!

This ugly sight faced motorists traveling Jourdan River Road Monday morning. Apparently someone had a big celebration over the weekend, and the garbage was placed out early for collection and dogs dug in for treats. Those who have dogs need to keep control of them and keep them out of other people's garbage. The road appears to be litter-free with the exception of this one isolated spot. ### House sends veteran benefits claim bill and votes to improve women services

Veterans all over the country who may have become frustrated with the VA's benefits claims process, may soon find relief once the president signs a bill recently passed by the House of Representatives.

The bill will speed up the relief process by allowing a veteran's appeal to be assigned to a single member of the Veterans Affairs Department's Board of Veterans' Appeal.

Many veterans have argued that the present requirement of having three board members involved with a single appeal slows the appeals process considerably.

Some veterans have testified that they have had to wait years for an appeal board's final decision. I believe our veterans deserve better.

As a strong supporter of the bill, I agree that we must accelerate the process or get swamped. In the past few years we have seen a substantial increase in the number of pending claims. The House Veterans Affairs Committee, which is chaired by Rep. G. V. "Sonny" Montgomery of Mississippi has found that pending claims have climbed from 377,000 in 1990 to about 550,000 today.

By allowing one board member per claim, we can free appeals board members so they can tackle the backlog of claims and increase the number of decisions per year.

It is expected that by allowing a single appeals board member to rule on cases, the VA can increase the number of its decisions by 25 percent.

Also veteran related, the House overwhelmingly approved a bill that would establish a center at the VA to focus attention on the needs of women veterans.

Women currently make up 12 percent of the armed forces and the number of women in the armed forces is expected to grow well into the next century. In a decade, it is estimated that 11 percent of all veterans will be women.

As the ranks of woman veterans increase, many VA hospitals are finding that they lack the specialists and resources needed to treat health problems of women veterans.

The plan calls for the VA to appoint a director that would make recommendations on how to improve health services for women.

The health services for women veterans bill is currently being considered by the Senate.

Lobbyists may figure way around new state law

Some were amazed at the recent news of the president of the Senate in Louisiana handing out envelopes to lawmakers containing $2,500 in alleged campaign contributions from a gaming industry operator.

Don't laugh. It could soon happen in the Mississippi Legislature.

As Louisiana Senate President Sammy Nunez put it, he was only the "messenger" and somebody "had to do it." All legal, you understand, under Louisiana campaign finance law.

The Louisiana story is particularly pertinent in Mississippi in view of the passage of this state's tough new law regulating lobbyists that will eliminate the long-abused $25 loophole in reporting itemized expenditures for entertaining legislators.

Starting in January when the new law takes effect, every cup of coffee a lobbyist buys for a lawmaker (or, of course, any executive department official) must be reported with the name of the recipient thereof.

Mississippi legislators hate worse than the plague having their names made public as having been wined, dined, or otherwise entertained by lobbyists, and lobbyists well know it.

That is why the members of the "third house" have always used all sorts of clever devices to keep from having to list lawmakers' names under the old lobby law.

Supposedly, all those little gimmicks have been wiped out by the new law. Evidently the army of lobbyists which works the Mississippi Legislature must think so.

They are both mad and angry, as was amply clear last week when more than 100 of them pounced on a deputy secretary of state who came to explain the new law at a legal education forum sponsored by the Mississippi Trial Lawyers.

The lobbyists, along with surprise interested visitors — Lt. Gov. Eddie Briggs and Senate Pro Tem Pud'Graham of New Albany — swarmed to the meeting, fuming at Reece Partridge, deputy to Secretary of State Dick Molpus, who was the prime mover behind the lobby law reform.

If the good old days are gone for lobbyists to curry favor with lawmakers over a thick steak and a few belts of booze, certainly the operators of the system will find some new ways to make it work, as is already apparent in the Legislature of our Louisiana neighbors.

The answer here, as it is in Louisiana, may be via the campaign "contribution" route, with lawmakers lined up to get their handout from a benevolent special interest wanting a particular favor out of the Legislature.

In the recent Louisiana case, the generous benefactor was Louis Russell III, who operates a casino riverboat on Lake Pontchartrain, who wants what Mississippi operators have — dockside gambling.

While Mississippi may have a tough new lobbyist regulatory law, its campaign laws are an open invitation for some special interest operator or company to funnel money to legislators and be undetected, if he so chooses.

The only limitation now is that a corporation can give no more than $1,000, but an individual can actually give as much as he wants if it can't be traced to a corporate treasury. In the case of legislators, a contributor can give the lawmaker $200 a year and it will not have to be reported.

It's possible to have a scenario in which a lobbyist could stick $200 in individual envelopes and hand one to every member of the Legislature, and nothing would go on the record.

Don't laugh, that idea has been discussed in legislative circles, particularly since the clampdown on lobbyist entertainment.

A veteran lobbyist told me last week one legislator approached him and said, "Just give me a campaign donation, don't bother about taking me out."

The best gimmick of all for legislators is to have a continuing "campaign committee" between election cycles and put on periodic fund-raisers to which all the lobbyists are invited.

State Sen. Mike Gunn (R) of Jackson is one lawmaker known to have dipped into that pot.

Gunn put on a $100-a-head fund raiser for the "Mike Gunn Committee" in early February and sent out invitations to lobbyists.

The sweet part of the campaign committee scheme is that reports only have to be made once a year on Jan. 31.

So Gunn won't have to report his take from the February fund raiser for practically a whole year.

Look for the "campaign committee" idea to spread, and the envelopes to come pouring in.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

A Weekly Editorial
From Mississippi Economic Council

Mississippi voters get better access to change government

Even as Americans repeatedly cry out for a slowdown in government spending on pricey items, the Justice Department has embarked on plans for some of the most lavish and extravagant federal courthouses in the history of the country. One such federal building in Boston will sock taxpayers with a whopping bill for $218 million.

Included in the cost of the building is a dock for yachts on Boston Harbor and $789,000 in artwork.

In Mississippi the Department of Transportation is soon to open its new offices in a new complex costing taxpayers upward of $20 million; yet there is no money for needed highway work.

It's no wonder taxpayers feel ignored.

But in Mississippi, voters have a way of being heard loud and clear through the initiative and referendum process. MEC is using the process to cut wasteful spending on an oversized legislature — Mississippi is one of the largest in the nation.

This is an opportunity for voters to stand up and cut government spending, starting with the ones who do the spending — the legislators.

Voters need only call the Mississippi Economic Council at 1-800-748-7626 to get a petition. It's an opportunity for voters to be heard by the politicians.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire Caire

Soft shell crabs are in season

"But, I would like a little bit of butter for my bread," the old rhyme goes. But many of us have been shunning butter for healthful-diet reasons, bemoaning its absence from the table all the while.

Now we're told that butter is not such a "no-no" after all, at least according to a recent news story. So, quickly, quickly, before another survey contradicts this one and bans butter once more, let's enjoy cooking with butter, as well as "a little bit of butter" on our bread or toast or whatever.

After all, there are some dishes which truly need butter; nothing else will do. In my opinion, you can't make a butter sauce for chicken or fish or crabs with margarine, however skillfully you season it. It isn't at all the same, is it?

For instance, there's that greatest of delicacies so dear to our Coastal palates, the soft shell crab. Now at their succulent best this time of year, soft shell crabs are tasty, whether fried, sauteed, grilled over coals or oven-broiled. They're low in fat, nutritious and, above all, delicious.

So, I shall enjoy them my favorite way, butter-sauteed soft shells with pecans — and then, and only then, shall I read the newspaper, just in case there's been another pronouncement on butter in the diet! Here's:

SAUTEED SOFT SHELL CRABS PECAN

6 medium soft shell crabs,

cleaned and drained
1 to 1 1/2 Tbsp. chopped fresh parsley

Flour for dredging crabs lightly (1/2 to 2/3 cup)
1/2 tsp. black pepper, same of cayenne; salt as desired
1 1/2 sticks butter
2 Tbsp. oil
1 cup chopped pecans
Juice of half a lemon
White wine splashes (I use a generous half-cup)

Clean and drain crabs. Dredge crabs ever so lightly in the flour seasoned with the peppers and salt. Melt the butter in a large skillet, adding the oil to help prevent the butter burning.

When quite hot, add the crabs one at a time, without overcrowding, and cook for just a few minutes, 4 to 5 minutes a side or just until lightly browned.

Remove the crabs to a warmed platter, while you add the pecans to the pan juices and saute until they are lightly browned. Splash in the lemon juice, wine and a dash of Tabasco or Worcestershire sauce if you wish. Stir together and pour over the crabs, sprinkling the parsley over all. (6 servings)

If your crabs are small, serve 2 per person. I sometimes serve 2 medium crabs per person, as I'm still crab-hungry after I devour the first one.

P.S. If you're new at cleaning soft shell crabs: Raise the tips of the "shell," removing lungs and other inedible parts. Finally, lift the back of the "shell" and remove stomach and other parts between the halves. Remove eyes and mouth. Rinse in cold water and drain.

Space Center offers teacher workshops

The Teacher Resource Center at NASA's John C. Stennis Space Center will offer four free workshops for educators during July — July 20, 21, 27 and 28.

During the July 20 and 21 workshops, teachers will be introduced to innovative ways of presenting math, science, language arts and social studies concepts using space as a theme.

Cooperative learning strategies will also be addressed in these hands-on workshops where teachers will construct learning center activities for use in their classrooms.

The July 20 workshop is for teachers of kindergarten through grade three. The workshops on July 21 are for teachers of grades 4-6.

The July 27 and 28 workshops are about kids, noise and the soundscape. (Soundscape refers to either the natural or manmade acoustical environment in which we live.)

Teachers will learn how to use the concept of sound to teach children how to categorize, develop listening skills, complete creative writing activities and how to gather, analyze, graph and interpret data.

Alexander's contract extended by PRCC board

Pearl River Community College President Ted Alexander received his second two-year contract extension at the regular June meeting of the college's board of trustees.

Alexander, PRCC president since 1986, said he was elected over the board's action.

"I will continue to dedicate myself to help make PRCC everything it should be," said Alexander. "Your vote of confidence means so much as we look forward to the many great things which are about to take place here at Pearl River."

An evaluation committee made up of six of the 16 board members recommended Alexander's extension. The president's formal evaluation report included input over several months from faculty, staff, administrators and local citizens.

Of the 12 board members present, 10 voted for Alexander with none opposing and two abstaining. All 12 members unanimously voted to give the president the same pay increase as afforded all college employees.

Three board members were absent, and one position for a Pearl River County representative remains vacant.

Alexander's new contract is good until the start of the 1997-98 school year.

Tree limbs are not to exceed four feet in length and plastic bags not to exceed 40 pounds. Please call Waste Management for other information at 868-1563.

Please pick up as you go, and remember: "Let's Do More In '94."

President Roberta Lottes hopes this will be a day the whole community will participate in.

The flyer says, "Uncle Sam Needs You!" Please call 255-7638 to help. Sounds like a great day to me.

WHAT HAPPENED?

What was supposed to be a "brand new board" for the Diamondhead POA, heading in "a new direction" benefitting all of our community, fell short of a quorum at last Saturday, June 18 election.

Another election will be held in July. Please, have a voice and vote.

THOUGHTS TO SHARE

The Rev. Paul H. Richards, in his June news letter, thanks all those in his congregation at the Diamondhead Community Church who work 'behind the scenes.'

"Most of what happens in a church is 'behind the scenes.' We approach church on Sunday and may be unaware of how many people have been involved in seeing that the grass is cut, the shrubbery trimmed, the walk ways swept and some weeding done.

"We enter the sanctuary and be unaware that someone arrived early to unlock the doors, regulate the air conditioner, turn on the light and light the candles.

"We forget about those who prepare the bulletin, greet at the entrance, identify new members, distribute bulletins, handle the ushering, receive the offerings and participate in the church's music.

"We are painfully aware when things don't run smoothly, and we have little awareness of how many persons are involved to make sure things do run smoothly.

"It's the 'behind the scenes' work that makes possible the effective functioning of the church week by week.

"It's that 'behind the scenes' stuff that keeps us on track. We have a master calendar that projects what needs to be done each week during a given calendar year. Our committees continually look at current and future needs. That's all 'behind the scenes.'

"If things look good and work well, it's because so many do so much.

"Thank you to all of you who work 'behind the scenes.'"

Shoppers paying more for food

American consumers are paying slightly more for groceries during this year's second quarter than they paid during the first quarter of 1994, according to results of the American Farm Bureau's nationwide market basket survey.

Figures from Mississippi market basket participants, while not representing a wide sampling, indicate the state's shoppers are still getting a good buy in groceries when compared to national figures.

Mississippi consumers paid an average of $28.50 for 16 popular market basket items, while nationally the average price was $30.21.

Items surveyed that carried slightly higher prices this quarter included sirloin tip roast, pork chops, bacon, whole fryers, apples, potatoes, flour and bread. Items showing a decline in price included ground chuck, eggs, milk, cheese, cereal, cooking oil, shortening and mayonnaise.

The national figure of $30.21 was $1.23 below the 1990 third-quarter costs, but it did represent the highest market basket price reported since the third-quarter of 1991 ($30.27).

FHA celebrates 60th anniversary

The Federal Housing Administration was established by the National Housing Act of 1934 and signed into law on June 27, 1934.

Since that time, 60 years ago, more than 21 million households have had mortgages insured by FHA; more than 197 million households in the state of Mississippi — over $5 billion in mortgages in Mississippi.

In addition, FHA introduced two major concepts commonly accepted today: mortgage insurance backed by the federal government; and self-amortizing, long term, low down payment loans.

These federal programs were the beginning of a national trend toward homeownership instead of home rental.

From having a minority of families in homes of their own, the nation moved toward its present situation in which a growing majority of American families live in homes to which they hold title.

Over the years, the National Housing Act improved conditions for homeowners, liberalizing the insurance of mortgages on new homes for families of moderate income and also providing insurance of mortgages on rental housing projects built by private enterprise.

Census Bureau to survey

Local representatives of the U.S. Census Bureau will visit selected area households beginning July 1 to conduct its Survey of Income and Program Participation (SIPP), said Alfonso Mirabal, director of the bureau's Dallas regional office.

SIPP is a continuing nationwide survey introduced in the fall of 1983. It is one of the nation's largest, with about 60,000 households participating.

The Census Bureau publishes periodic reports with information from the survey. Subjects covered include the following:

- Jobs and earnings.
- The economic effects of unemployment, disability and retirement.
- How taxes affect personal spending.
- Participation in programs such as Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid, food stamps and pension plans.

Information from SIPP helps policy-makers and administrators determine how well government programs are serving the public and how changes in programs and policies will affect the public.

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

By Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

The last parishioner had just driven off after a meeting, and Harry and I were concluding a late-evening chat when two husky, handsome young men approached quickly from my left. I turned to see what their hurry was all about.

"Hi there!" I said spontaneously, figuring that their mission lay beyond us and they were greeting us in passing.

Flanked by the two of them, I was dumbfounded to hear, "Okay! Okay! Give it up! What do you have on you?"

Holding my hands out from my sides to show I had no weapons, I dug the dollar bills out of my left back pocket, totally amazed that this was transpiring at all.

"Search the other pockets! He may have more! What else do you have in there?" the same one asked, rifling my front pockets for coins or whatever. After all my pockets were emptied, he slammed my cards and car keys down on the sidewalk.

Harry must have said something which led them to believe that he had nothing. This angered the other youth when he found $18 on Harry's person. "B...! You said you didn't have anything!" one yelled as he punched him in the face.

As quickly as they had made the scene, they mounted their bikes, sped around the front of the church and melted into the night. Only then did I even look toward the third youth who had not dismounted his bike at all. "We're lucky at that," Harry said in relief. "The third guy had a gun trained on us. One false move, and both of us might have been history. Those had to be Crips. You could tell from the bandanas."

"Crips?" I repeated in amazement, thinking back to 1970 in Compton, Calif., when I was first told about the Crip gang and their criminal, at times deadly pursuits.

Even as we were being mugged, Mayor Marc Morial's 10-point anti-crime package was about to be enacted the very next day. The package is a good beginning which will have to be fine-tuned along the way as it is implemented.

Among other things, there is the curfew law interdicting all under 18 from the streets after 11 p.m. That is fine, but police need special powers to keep "wolf packs" of any age off the streets, whether they are on foot or on bicycles.

Urban wolf packs

I picked up a man last October fleeing from a wolf pack on bicycles. A month ago, a local funeral director who works across the street from our church was mugged by a wolf pack of four who accosted him on foot just outside the rectory.

One of the most alarming aspects of our being mugged was the quick, cool efficiency of the young muggers. By comparison, the mugging of Buffalo Bills by the Dallas Cowboys in the 1994 Super Bowl was bumbling and crude.

In addition to initial law enforcement steps, we have a fearfully long way to go in our efforts to change the values of our youngsters. These are all some mother's children — and some father's. Change has to begin there in the cradle.

Since home values, discipline and love are missing in all too many instances, the community must move in with concern, determination and muscle a-la extended family.

Obviously, we are dealing with a multi-headed hydra which requires ongoing study, constant planning and, above all, untiring efforts by the community to embrace true values.

Catch of the day

Lakeshore resident Theo Baker, center, who won his weight in shrimp as part of Bayou Caddy's Jubilee Casino's Father's Day celebration, gets some assistance from casino mascots Jubilee Joe, left, and Mr. Mari Gras. The 135-pound Baker was one of 250 dads who participated in the First Annual Bayou Caddy's Jubilee Casino's Father's Day Rod & Reel Casting Competition.

CONSUMER UPDATE

Senior adults cash in on homes

By Judy L. Goddard
Consumer Management Specialist

Senior adults who are homeowners can convert the equity in their home to cash with a reverse mortgage. Although available for several years, reverse mortgages have only recently been offered by lenders in Mississippi.

However, the number of lenders offering the reverse mortgage in the state is limited.

It's not an option for everybody, so careful consideration of the advantages and disadvantages is advised. Senior adults should also want to consider other options such as trading to a smaller house before deciding on the reverse mortgage.

The reverse mortgage is available to persons 62 years of age or older who own their home or have a small balance remaining on the mortgage.

The loan is secured with the home. For most reverse mortgages, repayment is due when the homeowner moves out or dies. Some, however, are for a set length of time such as ten or twenty years. The loan is usually repaid by the sale of the house by the homeowner or heirs.

The amount of money which may be received is determined by three factors: the homeowner's age, the projected increase in the value of the property, and the interest rate for the loan.

A reverse mortgage provides several advantages to senior adults. The person continues to live at home. The money is received as a monthly payment, a line of credit, a lump sum or a combination of the three.

There are no restrictions on how the money can be used. Monthly living expenses, to pay off the existing mortgage, or home improvements are a few of the uses seniors have for the money.

The money received does not affect Social Security or medicare benefits, and, Supplemental Security Income (SSI), is not affected if spent during the month. Reverse mortgages are available to those who would not otherwise qualify for a loan.

Among the disadvantages of a reverse mortgage is that it can be expensive. Costs may include origination fees, insurance premiums, servicing fees and closing costs.

Also, interest is added to the loan balance. The effect of compounding is that the amount of money received by the homeowner can be significantly less than the loan balance. In addition, a reverse mortgage reduces equity in the home, meaning that total assets are reduced.

Taxes, repairs and maintenance of the house continues to be the responsibility of the homeowner.

Three plans are available for reverse mortgages: FHA-insured mortgages, lender-insured reversed mortgages and uninsured mortgages.

Each has certain features that set it apart from the other two.

Poets invited to honor Jackie

Help finicky snakes adjust to new home

By Dr. Wynn Jones
Veterinarian
MSU College of Veterinary Medicine

"After many months of my son's constant pleading, I finally consented to allowing him to have a pet snake. (Yuck!) We've had our new pet for just three days, and it won't eat a bite. I'm sort of hoping that it will go on to its greater reward, but for my son's sake, I know I should find out what the problem is. Do you have any ideas?"

Before you sell your new pet short, you should know that snakes are probably the easiest of all exotic pets to keep healthy and happy.

Snakes take less care than any other animal with a backbone. Warm, close quarters, an occasional meal and a dish of fresh water are all most snakes ever require.

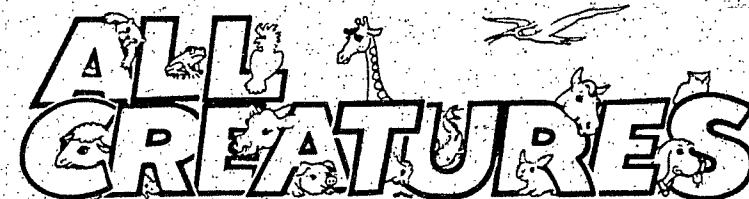

Unlike dogs and cats, there's no guilt if the snake is left alone all day. Snakes actually prefer solitude. Try to get over the feelings many people have about snakes, and begin to appreciate its beauty and behavior.

As for the snake not eating, I have learned that this is a common complaint among new snake owners. Often the snake not only refuses food but tirelessly looks for a way out of its new home.

This indicates environmental inadequacy. When a snake is this unsettled, it can be nippy and its health can suffer.

The snake can get so skinny that its ribs show. When and if it sheds skin, it may come off in patches instead of one smooth throw.

It generally takes about one year or more for this to happen. Usually the season a snake is so unsettled is that it is feeling insecure and needs a simple change in its environment.

Be sure to provide the snake with a place to hide. Snakes are not social creatures and tend to like privacy. Providing a hiding place for the snake will sometimes eliminate this problem.

The hiding place should be warm and dark and have firm sides which the snake can press and feel snug. Also, this spot should be large enough for the entire snake to disappear into, yet small enough so the snake fits snugly inside.

Keep the entrance of the hiding place no bigger than the fattest part of the snake's body.

Depending on the size of the snake, you may try using a flower vase turned on its side and wedged in the corner of the tank, or perhaps a shoe box with a hole cut out from the side.

Know what type of snake your son has. It is important to know when and what the snake ate last. Time of the year (photoperiod) and temperature are important environmental factors affecting reptilian appetite.

In general, most snakes eat only every few weeks, and some eat only every few months. Most snakes have very specific feeding requirements.

The type of snake, type of food, time of year (photoperiod), temperature, last feeding and shedding cycle are all important factors to consider.

Most snakes seem to respond when they are provided with a private hiding place. If, however, the snake still seems to have problems, you may need to get it to a veterinarian who specializes in exotic pets.

If you have questions concerning a pet's health, write Dr. Wynn Jones, MSUCVM, Box 9825, Mississippi State, MS 39762.

Girl Scout Day Camp

Special to the Echo
The Bay-Waveland Girl Scouts held a four-day day camp at Buccaneer State Park June 13-16, attended by 65 girls of which 56 were Brownies and nine were Junior Girl Scouts. Camp director Debra Reid and assistant Debra Reid planned the program.

There were plenty of volunteers on hand to lead individual units. Nine women from the area's troops were unit leaders. Others were arts and crafts person Shawn Prychitko, the service unit's treasurer Crystal Burrows, who took care of the camp's finances, and staff member and field advisor Beverly Brooks from the Gulf Pines District Office.

Brooks oversaw the camp activities. She invited Minnie Fields from the Gulfport office and Tara Douglas, a special guest from the National Girl Scouts headquarters in New York to give an extra hand. There were also five senior cadets on hand to assist the units.

Theme of the camp was favorite cartoon characters which were presented to the girls in various arts and crafts projects. Projects included matboard marionettes, door knockers, fans, t-shirt decorating, pottery, barrette creations, needlepoint, felt crests, bead mosaics, friendship bracelets, sun catchers and magnets.

The girls learned new songs, made new friends, played games, took nature hikes and swam at the park's wave pool on two occasions.

A demonstration on the NASA space program was held for the girls by Gail Mitchell, who is with the resource center at John C. Stennis Space Center.

She enlightened the girls about the space shuttle, what an astronaut experiences on a shuttlecraft mission and spoke about how the space program has enriched our lives with things we now use every day, such as velcro, microwave ovens and instant foods.

She also stressed how the program has incorporated recycling. She provided an opportunity to try out some of the equipment she brought along.

Every day of camp opened with a different unit raising the American flag, and all girls recited the Pledge of Allegiance. A different unit retired the flag.

Debra Reid presented the closing of camp by playing the bugle at the final flag ceremony June 16.

The girls learned a new Girl Scout song, which they sang for their parents at a special presentation on the final day of camp.

Each unit presented its songs or skits for parents.

Awards were presented to the volunteers.

The camp was open to any girls already in Girl Scouting, as well as to those wishing to get a taste of what Girl Scouting is all about.

FISHIN' Y'ALL

By Jim Maness

It's time to go fishin' y'all. Got to talk to some folks around the American Legion pier in Bay St. Louis. It seems that the public boat launch at this pier draws a lot of folks.

Two of the folks I talked to were Keith Hoda and Randy Walkins and their buddies. There must have been an electric line down somewhere out in the bay as Keith and his buddies all had on Coast Electric hats.

I questioned them at length about the proper procedures necessary to provide electric power to fish. The answers they gave me were really vague, so I finally figured out that they were really gonna go fishin' and not fix electric lines.

The day I talked to these folks the sky was dark with clouds and loud noises were emanating from the sky. But, being the dedicated fishermen they are, they informed me fishin' trips are more important than a little bit of rain.

This is especially true if you can only go fishin' on your day off. Besides, according to Randy Walkins, since he caught the biggest fish seen in this area since 1962 last week, his wife was not gonna let him come home unless he could provide her with the fish for blackened red fish. This means he went fishin' under strict orders. A man has to do what he has to do. This is especially true if it is under orders from his wife.

There were several families fishing on the American Legion pier. This is a free-to-the-public fishing pier. It is located on Beach Boulevard right across the street from Big E seafood in Bay St. Louis and is a good family-type place to go to catch a few fish.

It has the advantage of being close to deep water. This means you have access to some of the deep water fish like sharks and large red fish.

There are quite a number of places to sit down on the end of the pier. My attention was brought to this point by a young lady who explained to me that her boyfriend (?) were in town and she really did not want to be out on this miserable place with her family. It seems that the numerous benches provided a place to "mope." Teenagers have no end to problems.

A man by the name of Bob Davis passed on to me what has become a real problem for fishermen on all piers. It seems that boaters have a tendency to come too close to piers. He has had several ones cut by careless boaters coming too close.

I understand the law requires boaters to come no closer than 400 feet from any pier. This sounds like a realistic law. Fishing line has a tendency to really mess up the seals in the lower unit of outboard motors.

To make matters worse, most pier fishermen don't have big enough rod and reels to effectively play and land the average boat. So, please folks, do your best to stay a long ways away from the fishing piers.

One final word before I go on to another subject — Dawn Dulworth and Sarah Golman of Bay St. Louis said they fish the pier with their friends regularly and they catch fish sometimes (?). I told them I would write what they said. Your guess is as good as mine as to what it means.

Get your stuff ready for the rodeo; here are the rules

Steven Bounds, 9, from Picayune

The Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo will be July 1-4. Headquarters will be at the Rice Pavilion in Gulfport small craft harbor. With that out of the way, here are the rodeo rules:

1. King Fisherman and Queen Fisherette are selected by points entered daily for first, second and third place winners in all 30 categories except gar and catfish.

2. All contestants must register before entering fish for prizes. Individual registration is free.

3. All competitive fishing shall begin at 12:01 a.m. July 1 and end July 4 at 4 p.m. All fish must be checked by the weigh master before 8 p.m. July 1, 2 and 3 and before 4 p.m. July 4.

4. Contestants may fish from any port or pier and transport their catches by any means, but under no circumstances will frozen or fish that have been frozen, gutted or mutilated be accepted. Fish entered in any other rodeo or tournament will not be eligible for rodeo competition.

5. All decisions of the rodeo rules committee will be final.

6. Fish entries for prize competition will be accepted up to weighing deadline each day.

7. All fish entries will remain on public display throughout the day.

8. Fresh water catches must be within the Mississippi law limits. Note: minimum weights fresh water division: catfish 2 pounds, perch 7 ounces, white perch 10 ounces.

9. All fresh water fish entered into prize competition must be taken from rivers, streams, lakes, bayous, ponds or any other waters. Saltwater fish may be taken anywhere in the Mississippi Sound or the Gulf of Mexico.

10. Special rules will apply to saltwater catches as follows: Lemon fish — must be 33" fork length or 37 inches overall. King Mackerel — must be 33" in length. Red fish — no more than 2 fish 30" or longer per person. Speckled trout — no more than 25 per person per day (no less than 2 lbs.) Spanish Mackerel — must be 12" fork length or 14" overall. Red snapper — 13" minimum length (subject to change).

Phew, that's a lot of stuff. But the rules is the rules. It is always good to know the rules before you play the game.

This week's wonderful wise words: Get your stuff ready to participate in the rodeo.

Do you think they have saddles for those rodeo fish, Turtle?

Volkssporting:

The sport of the people

The Magnolia State Volkssport Club is one of more than 550 active clubs throughout the United States.

Each club is a member of the American Volkssport Association and part of the International Federation of Popular Sports. Together they hold thousands of folkssporting events each year.

Promoting physical fitness and good health by providing fun-filled, safe exercise in a stress-free environment is the hallmark of folkssporting.

Walking is the most popular of all the activities, but there are also opportunities to do biking events.

Historic and scenic sites are selected. Trails are carefully laid out and marked, or where marking is not permitted, easy to follow directions or maps are provided. Ratings of 1 to 5 are given to trails based upon the challenge the trail presents.

The club currently maintains three year-round events, which means they can be done any time throughout the year. The events consist of two 10K walks and one 25K bike trail.

The first of the walks is the Historic Biloxi trail, which starts and finishes at the Biloxi Visitors Center on Hwy. 90. The trail rating is No. 1; an easy walk which takes you past many historic points of interest. The trail is suitable for strollers and wheelchairs.

Summer hours for this event are Mon.-Fri., 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; and Sunday, noon to 5 p.m. For information call 497-3877 or 872-3059.

The second of the walks and the bike trail takes you through historic Ocean Springs. Both events start at the Master Grill Restaurant located on Hwy. 90 and Hanley Road.

After registration you pick up the maps and proceed to Gulf Islands National Seashore Park.

The trail rating is No. 2, and portions of the trail may not be suitable for strollers and wheelchairs.

The walk and the bike trail can be done during the daylight hours. For information call 872-3059.

The Magnolia State Volkssport Club is a non-profit organization and is open to everyone interested in good health and fitness.

The club holds its monthly meeting on the third Thursday of the month at Ocean Springs Recreation Department on Alice Street.

For information, call Neal Gambler at 872-3059 or write to Magnolia State Volkssport Club, P. O. Box 731, Biloxi, MS 39533.

Gulf Coast residents participated in two computer classes offered at the University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Park campus.

The two classes — Introduction to Computers and Computers in Education — were held June 13-17 at USM's Gulf Park campus in Long Beach.

Dr. Bill Gore, retired assistant dean of Gulf Park, taught the courses.

Students enrolled in Introduction to Computers were Paula Boos of Bay St. Louis; Nadine Patton and Gail Dooley Ruspoli, both of Pass Christian; and Gail Donald, Donna Ladner and Valerie Owenby, all of Long Beach.

Heier on dean's list

Schoen Heier of Diamond-head is on Loyola University's Spring 1994 dean's list for students completing the semester with a grade point average of 3.5 or better. Heier is majoring in marketing.

Coast students summer co-ops

Gulf Coast area students involved in cooperative education programs at the University of Southern Mississippi are working as part of that program this summer.

Gina A. Cuevas, a psychology major from Pass Christian, is working with the Naval Oceanographic Office.

Patricia Simm, a marine science major from Pass Christian, is also working for the Naval Oceanographic Office.

Cooperative education allows a USM student to work in a professional position while attending school. Some students work full time for a semester and then go back to school for a semester, while others work certain days of the week and attend classes on others.

The cooperative experience continues until the student graduates.
